

Using No Pain Management is bad . . .

Using Ineffective Pain Management is even WORSE.

Superior effectiveness of the ambIT[®] line of Infusion Pumps:

- Programmable operation provides flexibility to meet the unique needs of each patient.
- Sophisticated design provides alarms and alerts to ensure that the patient does not become the alarm.
- Patient activated bolus for breakthrough pain with precise lockout time and accurate bolus volume set by the physician.
- Volumetric accuracy of +/- 6% allows for sensory block without complete motor block.
- Electronically stored infusion history reports.

Ineffective
pain management
wastes your time
and your patients' money.

Ineffectiveness of mechanical infusion pumps caused by:

- Volumetric and bolus lockout time are dependent on environmental factors (temperature, altitude, etc.)
- Patient pain is the only alarm
- Limitations in titrating pump prevent tailoring therapy to patients' perception and tolerance of pain
